

Your inner world is more real than the truth itself ... and affects all your thoughts, feelings, behaviors, and reactions. Your inner world consists of a set of relationships and feelings stored in dramatic, highly complex and dramatic pictures. The inner world appears in your dreams, in the way you walk, in your relationship with yourself, your body, people, and even your relationship with god... The matter in presenting the interest on the text is that the texts are a burden of no use, because the person follows his interests wherever they are, so the interest agreed with the text in the interest, and that he violated, the presence of the text was a burden, a response, and a preoccupation for people, and it is a natural consequence of who looks at the interest with a standard that differs from the standard of laws. It differs from interest, while in fact, the texts do not come except for the most complete and honorable interests, as the conflict is not between the interest and the text, but between the interests of the laws that the texts and false interests brought by the imagination of the souls. In scientific study as a whole, starting from defining the subject of research and collecting scientific material to reaching real and honest results by relying on the research methodology, the learner insures that he will era in his scientific studies, or that he will follow a scientific behavior that affects the sincerity and strength of his study results.

Omar Ismail Al Khoori

Omar_Al_Khoori@yahoo.com